

My Host Mom

My host mom is a very kind and helpful woman. She has been very helpful in many ways, including showing me around the city and helping me with my Japanese. She is a very good person and I am very lucky to have her as my host mom.

Sustainable Agriculture

A facility outside of Tokyo that is very similar to the facility in Akihabara, but instead of the game and electronics stores, it is a farm. It is a very beautiful place and I am very lucky to have seen it.

Wall of Sake

A wall of sake and other items. It is a very interesting place and I am very lucky to have seen it.

SECOND HARVEST AKIHABARA TOKYO

Popcorn
Second Harvest Japan aims to create a food safety net in Japan. It aims to do so by providing food to children's homes, single mother shelters, centers for the disabled as well as many other welfare organizations and individuals in need. In order to deliver enough food to those who lack food security (having access to safe, nutritious food) on a daily basis, Second Harvest Japan cooperates with food manufacturers and other companies and helps to use food to create new partnerships between corporations and the community.

Second Harvest Factory
A place in an electric neighborhood of Tokyo, called Akihabara, where people working in Japan but often are not employed at their own country to help provide for themselves or their family, can come to pick up an assortment of food and materials on a weekly or monthly basis, depending on their needs.
The Kitchen
A place where workers and volunteers make around 700 dinners (such as soups, rice and bread) weekly to provide patients, teachers, people, and students.

Akihabara Headquarters

A picture of the Akihabara Headquarters (the golden building with the glass roof), which was designed to look like a glass of beer and the black concert hall that is topped with what is supposed to be a golden drop of beer. But instead looks like, and is colloquially referred to as the golden goblet.

Cherry Blossom Festival (Hana Matsuri) in Akihabara, Tokyo. The festival is held every year in Akihabara, and is a very popular event.

Kids Cafe

A cafe where kids can come and eat. It is a very nice place and I am very lucky to have seen it.

Tokyo Disney Sea

A theme park in Tokyo. It is a very nice place and I am very lucky to have seen it.

My favorite food in Japan is ramen. It is a very delicious food and I am very lucky to have seen it.

Ramen

My favorite food in Japan.
