

Guide
to the
Minor Myers, Jr.
Honors Collection

The Ames Library
May 31, 2023

As intended from the initial stages of planning, the Bates & Merwin Reading Room is the crown jewel of The Ames Library.

Given his central role in building The Ames Library and his high standards and hopes for the IWU community, it is fitting that the collection housed here is named in honor of President Minor Myers, jr., 17th president of Illinois Wesleyan, 1989 – 2003.

Early in 2003 a call for proposals went out to Illinois Wesleyan faculty to submit ideas of what the collection should look like.

Jim Plath, English department faculty member, submitted the winning proposal that called for the pinnacle of Ames Library to host books that had received honors in their respective disciplines from around the world.

Professor Plath's reasoning for proposing the Honors Collection is as follows:

- Illinois Wesleyan espouses the value that our students, faculty, staff, and alumni should aspire to be the best at what they do, and an honors collection celebrates both the best books in all fields and that important institutional value.
- A collection of this nature gives people access to the best books so neophytes to a field or discipline can steer automatically to books worth reading.
- Because an honors collection will span a huge number of topics and disciplines but also include international, popular, and small press materials, it will feature many books that should invite reading for pleasure.
- An honors collection featuring recent books will change from year to year and as a result the reading room will always have important potential to expose readers to new finds and discoveries through a never ending built in freshness.

- Such a collection celebrates and promotes the kind of multi-talented, multi-interested individuals that the liberal arts and this university tout.

The collection is reviewed periodically, removing and adding titles as appropriate. When new awards are added, the year collecting started is noted in this guide. It is our practice to add books for the previous ten years for these later additions rather than purchasing back to 1989. Titles that we no longer actively collect remain in the collection until it is feasible to move them into the main circulating collection.

The awards included in The Minor Myers, jr. Honors Collection celebrate fiction, poetry, cookbooks, short story, history, biography, science, nature, the art of the book, and many other categories from the world's authors. The pages of this guide include an alphabetized list of award titles and their descriptions. The collection is arranged alphabetically by award title and year awarded.

The award titles serve as call numbers for the collection.

AAASS/ORBIS Books Prize for Polish Studies

The AAASS/Orbis Books Prize for Polish Studies, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Kulczycki, owners of the Orbis Books Ltd. of London, England, is awarded annually by the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies (AAASS), for the best book in any discipline, on any aspect of Polish affairs. The Prize began in 1996, and since then such authors as Richard Noyce, Jonathan Huener, and Karin Friedrich have received the award for their works in this area of study.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

The AAS CIAC Levenson Book Prize

The AAS China and Inner Asia Council offer two Joseph Levenson Prizes for nonfiction scholarly books on China. The Merlin Foundation, established by the late Audrey Sheldon, has provided for the two awards, one for works whose main focus is on China before 1900 and the other for works on post-1900 China. The prizes are awarded to the English-language books that make the greatest contribution to increasing understanding of the history, culture, society, politics, or economy of China. Works in all disciplines and in all periods of Chinese history are eligible, but anthologies, edited works, and pamphlets will not be considered. In keeping with the broad scholarly interests of Joseph Levenson, special consideration will be given to books that, through comparative insights or groundbreaking research, promote the relevance of scholarship on China to the wider world of intellectual discourse.

*These awards underwent a name change in 2002; therefore, our collection holds four shelves for two awards titles but they are no longer collected as of 2015.

Agnes Lynch Starrett Poetry Prize

In 1981, the University of Pittsburgh Press announced the Agnes Lynch Starrett Poetry Prize for a first full-length book of poems. Named after a former director of the Press, the prize now carries a cash award of $5,000 and publication by the University of Pittsburgh Press in the Pitt Poetry Series under its standard royalty contract. The winner is announced in the fall of the selection year. The Starrett Prize is one of only a few venues for poetry manuscripts. The award is open to any poet writing in English who has not had a full-length book published previously. Since its inception, the prize has been awarded to such poets as Gabriel Gudding, Hunt Hawkins, and Nancy Vieira Couto.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

Albert B. Corey Prize

The Corey Prize, awarded for the first time in 1967, is sponsored jointly by the American Historical Association and the Canadian Historical Association. This biennial prize is awarded in even numbered years for the best book on Canadian-American relations or on the history of both countries. The prize was approved in 1963 by the Councils of both Associations in honor of Albert B. Corey (1898--1963), one-time chair of the American section of the AHA-CHA Joint Committee, who first proposed such an award to encourage the study of Canadian-U.S. relations. The awarding of the prize was formally ratified in 1966, after funding for the prize was secured.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

Albert J. Beveridge Award

The Beveridge Award is given annually for the best book in English on the history of the United States, Latin America, or Canada from 1492 to the present. The award was established on a biennial basis in 1939 and has been awarded annually since 1945. It honors U.S. Senator Albert J. Beveridge (Indiana, 1899–1911), a longtime member of the Association and an active supporter of history as both a lawyer and a senator. The Beveridge Fund was created by a gift of $50,000 from Mrs. Catherine Beveridge in honor of her husband in 1927. Mrs. Beveridge wrote to the AHA of her desire for “a separate fund bearing my husband’s name and devoted to research in American history.” The fund was augmented by donations from friends of Senator Beveridge and the scope of the award was enlarged to encompass Latin America and Canada as well as the United States.

Alexander Nove Prize

The Nove Prize was established by decision of the annual general meeting of the British Association for Slavonic and East European Studies in March 1995 in recognition of the outstanding contribution to its field of study made by the late Alec Nove. It was first awarded in the spring of 1997 for works published during calendar year 1995. Past winners include Geoffrey Swain, Archie Brown, and Simon Franklin.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2013.

Ananda Kentish Coomaraswamy Book Prize

The South Asia Council of the AAS created the Ananda Kentish Coomaraswamy Book Prize in 1992, which honors the author of the best English-language work in South Asian studies, and which carries with it a $1,000 award for the author. To be eligible, nominated books must be original, scholarly, nonfiction works and must be the first publication of this text in English anywhere in the world. The book's subject matter must deal with South Asia (India, Pakistan, Nepal, Sri Lanka, and Bangladesh) and may concern any topic in any discipline, or it may cross disciplinary lines. The award is usually presented at the National Conference of AAS the following spring.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2016.

APSA Best Book Award

The American Political Science Association Best Book Award honors the best book on government, politics, or international affairs. Nominees do not have to be members of APSA, affiliated with an institution in the United States, or an American citizen in order to be considered for an award. It is not compulsory that authors be political scientists, but books must have been published in the previous calendar year to be eligible for the current awards cycle. The award is presented at the APSA Annual Meeting and carries a cash prize of $5,000.

*This title underwent a name change in 2021. This collection added award recipients starting in 2016 (with purchases back to 2005) under the previous title: Woodrow Wilson Foundation Award.

Arvey Foundation Book Award

The Association for Latin American Art is pleased to sponsor the Annual ALAA-Arvey Foundation Book Award for an especially distinguished scholarly book published on the art of Latin America from the Pre-Columbian era to the present. The award is generously funded by the Arvey Foundation and consists of a citation and a $1,000 honorarium. Books may be written in English, Spanish, or Portuguese. Entries will be evaluated by a three-person committee of accomplished art historians, each with expertise in a wide geographical and temporal range.

*Award title added in 2022; purchases made back to 2012.

ASA Distinguished Scholarly Book Award

The American Sociological Association Distinguished Scholarly Book Award is presented annually to an ASA member for the best single book published in the two calendar years preceding the year the book is nominated.

*Award title added in 2016; purchases made back to 2007.

Atlantic History Prize

The Prize in Atlantic History was created in 1998 in accordance with the terms of a gift from James A. Rawley, Carl Adolph Happold Professor of History Emeritus at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. It is offered annually to recognize outstanding historical writing that explores aspects of integration of Atlantic worlds before the twentieth century. Recent Winners of the Prize include: Jeremy Adelman, Patricia Seed, and Laurent Dubois.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Barbara Jelavich Book Prize

The Barbara Jelavich Book Prize, sponsored by Charles Jelavich, is awarded annually by the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies (AAASS) for a distinguished monograph published on any aspect of Southeast European or Habsburg studies since 1600, or nineteenth- and twentieth-century Ottoman or Russian diplomatic history.

Barbara Jelavich was a distinguished and internationally respected scholar whose numerous publications included Modern Austria, Russia's Balkan Entanglements, and the two-volume History of the Balkans. The Jelavich Prize was established in 1995 in her memory to recognize and to encourage the high standards she set in her many areas of scholarly interest and to promote continued study of those areas.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Berry-AMA Book Prize

The Berry-AMA Book Prize for the Best Book in Marketing recognizes books whose innovative ideas have had significant impact on marketing and related fields. Created by distinguished author and Professor Leonard L. Berry and his wife Nancy F. Berry through generous contributions to the AMA Foundation, the Prize was awarded for the first time in fall 2002.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Brittingham Prize in Poetry

The Brittingham Prize in Poetry is awarded annually to the best book-length manuscript of original poetry submitted in an open competition. The award is administered by the University of Wisconsin–Madison English Department, and the winner is chosen by a nationally recognized poet. The resulting book is published by the University of Wisconsin Press. The Brittingham Prize, awarded annually since 1985, is made possible by the foundation established in the late 1920s with a grant from Thomas E. Brittingham.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Caldecott Medal

The Caldecott Medal was named in honor of nineteenth-century English illustrator Randolph Caldecott. It is awarded annually by the Association for Library Service to Children, a division of the American Library Association, to the artist of the most distinguished American picture book for children.

CAMWS Award

The CAMWS Award for Outstanding Publication recognizes a distinguished first book published by a member of CAMWS during the past four years. The award of $500 plus a certificate was presented for the first time at their convention in Austin, Texas in April 2002. Both monographs and textbooks are eligible for submission for the prize; the single criterion is excellence as judged by the committee appointed by the President for this purpose. Nominations (including self-nominations) are strongly encouraged. The committee aims to consider all eligible books, and so wants to know about every member of CAMWS who has published his or her first book within the last three years.

Coretta Scott King Award

The Award is presented annually to an African American author and illustrator for outstanding inspirational and educational contributions. The Coretta Scott King Book Award titles promote understanding and appreciation of the culture of all peoples and their contribution to the realization of the American dream of a pluralistic society.

The award was designed to commemorate the life and work of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and to honor Mrs. Coretta Scott King for her courage and determination in continuing to work for peace and world brotherhood. It is presented annually to an African American author and an African American illustrator for an outstandingly inspirational and educational contribution published. Awards are given both to authors and to illustrators who each receive a plaque and $1,000.

Crab Orchard Award Series

The Crab Orchard Award Series in Poetry began in 1998 as a co-publishing venture of Crab Orchard Review and Southern Illinois University Press. In 2004, the Crab Orchard Award Series in Poetry changed its name to the Crab Orchard Series in Poetry to reflect a new area in our ongoing project to publish some of the best new work by established and new voices in American poetry. In addition to continuing to publish our First Book Award and our Open Competition Award winners each year, the series began in 2004 to publish Editor's Selections chosen by the series editor to build upon and expand the strengths of the Crab Orchard Series in Poetry.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2013.

Drue Heinz Literature Prize

For more than twenty years the Drue Heinz Literature Prize has recognized and supported writers of short fiction and made their work available to readers around the world. The award is open to writers who have published a book-length collection of fiction or at least three short stories or novellas in commercial magazines or literary journals. Manuscripts are judged anonymously by nationally known writers; past judges have included Robert Penn Warren, Joyce Carol Oates, Raymond Carver, Margaret Atwood, Russell Banks, and Rick Moody. The prize carries a cash award of $15,000 and publication by the University of Pittsburgh Press under its standard contract. The winner is announced in February of each year.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Ed A. Hewett Book Prize

The Ed A. Hewett Book Prize, sponsored by the National Council for Eurasian and East European Research (NCEEER), is awarded annually by the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies (AAASS) for an outstanding publication on the political economy of the centrally planned economies of the former Soviet Union and East Central Europe and their transitional successors.

Ed Hewett was a distinguished scholar, a fine colleague, and an internationally respected member of the field. The Hewett Prize was established in 1994 in his honor to recognize and encourage the high standard of scholarship that he so admirably advanced in the area of his interests.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Euler Book Prize

The Prize is intended to recognize authors of exceptionally well written books with a positive impact on the public's view of mathematics and to encourage the writing of such books. Eligible books include mathematical monographs at the undergraduate level, histories, biographies, works of fiction, poetry collections of essays, and works on mathematics as it is related to other areas of arts and sciences.

Felix Pollak Prize in Poetry

The Felix Pollak Prize in Poetry is awarded annually to the best book-length manuscript of original poetry submitted in an open competition. The award is administered by the University of Wisconsin–Madison English department, and the winner is chosen by a nationally recognized poet. The resulting book is published by the University of Wisconsin Press. The prize was founded in 1994 and honors Felix Pollak, a popular Wisconsin poet and former curator of the Rare Book Room and Little Magazine Collection at the University of Wisconsin–Madison Memorial Library. Among his best-known books are The Castle and the Flaw, Tunnel Vision, and Benefits of Doubt.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Financial Times Business Book of the Year Award

Awarded to the best business book of the year that has “the most compelling and enjoyable insight into modern business issues” as determined by the Financial Times and McKinsey & Company.

*Award title added in 2016; purchases made back to 2006, the first year for this award.

Flannery O'Connor Award for Short Fiction

Each year the University of Georgia Press selects two winners of the Flannery O'Connor Award for Short Fiction. Authors of winning manuscripts receive a cash award of $1,000, and their collections are subsequently published by The Press under a standard book contract. The Press may occasionally select more than two winners. To be eligible a book must be written in English, and have not been published in any mass form previous to the nomination.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

George L. Mosse Prize

The Mosse Prize was established in 2000 with funds donated by former students, colleagues, and friends of Professor George L. Mosse, eminent scholar of European history. The prize is awarded annually for an outstanding major work of extraordinary scholarly distinction, creativity, and originality in the intellectual and cultural history of Europe since the Renaissance. Recent Winners include Siep Stuurman, Sarah Maza, and Anthony J. La Vopa.

George Louis Beer Prize

The George Louis Beer Prize is offered in recognition of outstanding historical writing on any phase of European international history since 1895. Awarded annually since its inception in 1923, this prize was established in accordance with the terms of a bequest by George Louis Beer (1872--1920), a historian of the British colonial system before 1765.

The award is open to any scholar who is a United States citizen or permanent resident of the United States; books published during the year preceding the year of award are eligible. The phrase "European international history since 1895" refers to any study of international history since the year 1895 with a significant European dimension.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Graphic Medicine Award

The Graphic Medicine International Collective (GMIC), a not-for-profit organization with a mission to guide and support the uses of comics in health, established this award for an outstanding health-related comic project completed and/or published in the previous year. This award was made possible by a generous matching gift in Honor of Nancy and Herbert Wolf. They supported anti-racist, anti-war, and economic social justice causes throughout their lives. They performed numerous plays with friends for over forty-five years. Nancy died in 2010. Herb died in 2018. This award is intended to honor and carry on their legacy of service and care.

*Started purchasing in 2022, the first year of the award.

Harold Morton Landon Translation Award

This $1,000 award recognizes a published translation of poetry from any language into English. Founded in 1976, the award was originally biennial. It has been given annually since 1984. A noted translator chooses the winning book. Books must be submitted by December 31 of the year that they are published. Previous recipients include: Daryl Hine, Clayton Eshleman, and Guy Davenport.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Harry J. Benda Prize in Southeast Asian Studies

The Harry J. Benda Prize of the AAS is given annually to an outstanding newer scholar from any discipline or country specialization of Southeast Asian studies. There are no citizenship or residence requirements for nominees. The award, which honors one of the pioneers in the field of Southeast Asian studies, has been presented 21 times since 1977, and carries with it a $1,000 award for the author. The Benda Prize Committee, appointed by the Southeast Asia Council of the AAS, seeks and receives nominations from which to select the yearly recipient.

Nominations for the prize may be made by trade book publishers, university presses, or any interested AAS member. Self-nomination is discouraged. Authors need not be AAS members. The winner is announced at the AAS annual meeting during the spring.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2016.

Herbert Baxter Adams Prize

The Adams Prize is awarded annually for a distinguished first book by a young scholar in the field of European history. The prize was established in 1905 in memory of the first secretary of the Association, Herbert Baxter Adams of Johns Hopkins U., who was also one of the founders of the Association.

The Adams Prize was initially offered on a biennial basis, but in 1930 it was discontinued due to the financial crisis. The prize was revived in 1938, again as a biennial offering, and became an annual award in 1971. The competition was formerly restricted to "American citizens" but since 1986 has been open to citizens and permanent residents of the United States and Canada.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Herbert Feis Award

Established in 1984, this prize is offered annually to recognize distinguished contributions to public history over the past ten years. The prize is named in memory of Herbert Feis (1893-1972), public servant and historian of recent American foreign policy, with an initial endowment from the Rockefeller Foundation. The prize was given for books produced by historians working outside of academe until 2006, when the scope will be widened to include other types of public history work.

The prize defines both "contribution" and "public history" broadly. Often, the contribution will be the result of years of effort in the field, but the prize might also recognize a singular contribution of major importance such as a path breaking museum exhibit.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

Irving Lowens Book Award

The Society of American Music annually awards this prize to the book judged as the best in the field of American music. Any book on American music published in the previous year is eligible. The Lowens Book Award represents one of our most prestigious honors and carries with it a monetary prize as well as a citation that will be presented at the annual national conference each spring.

We define “American music” in its broadest, most inclusive sense meaning all musics of the Americas, in their historical and contemporary styles and contexts, including art and popular cultures, ethnic groups and minorities, immigrant composers, performers, and communities, along with American music’s ramifications on cultures elsewhere in the world.

*Award title added in 2022; purchases made back to 2012.

J. Russell Major Prize

The American Historical Association established the J. Russell Major Prize to be awarded annually for the best work in English on any aspect of French history. The prize was established in memory of J. Russell Major, the distinguished scholar of French history who died on December 12, 1998 at the age of 77. Major served on the history faculty at Emory University from 1949 until his retirement in 1990, and wrote 10 books, including Representative Government in Early Modern France and From Renaissance Monarchy to Absolute Monarchy: French Kings, Nobles and Estates.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

James Beard Foundation Awards

The James Beard Foundation Awards recognize culinary professionals for excellence and achievement in their field. The Awards are presented by The James Beard Foundation. The James Beard Foundation Awards were established in 1990 through the merging of the two most prominent culinary awards in North America at the time: The R.T. French Tastemaker Cookbook Awards and the Who's Who of Food and Beverage in America. The James Beard Foundation expanded the program to include Chef and Restaurant Awards. The Awards ceremony is held in the spring during the annual Beard Birthday Fortnight celebration.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

James Henry Breasted Prize

Established in 1985, this prize, named in honor of James Henry Breasted, a pioneer in ancient Egyptian and Near Eastern history and president of the Association in 1928, is offered for the best book in English in any field of history prior to 1000 A.D. The prize has been endowed by Joseph O. Losos, a longtime member of the Association. Only books of a high scholarly nature should be submitted. Research accuracy, originality, and literary merit are important factors. Previous winners include: E. J. W. Barber, Bruce D. Smith, and David Lewis-Williams.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

James Laughlin Award

The James Laughlin Award is given to recognize and support a poet's second book. It is the only second-book award for poetry in the United States. Offered since 1954, the award was endowed in 1995 by a gift to the Academy from the Drue Heinz Trust. It is named for the poet and publisher James Laughlin (1914-1997), who founded New Directions in 1936. Only manuscripts already under contract with publishers are considered for the James Laughlin Award. The Academy awards the winning poet a cash prize of $5,000 and purchases copies of the book for distribution to its members. Submissions are accepted each year from January 1 to May 15. Winners are announced in August.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

James R. Wiseman Award

Each year the James R. Wiseman Book Award Committee will recommend, in time for presentation of the award at the Annual Meeting of the Institute, the work it deems most worthy of recognition in that year. Books and monographs bearing a date of publication within the four calendar years prior to (not including) the year of the Annual Meeting at which the award is made will be eligible for consideration.

Authors and publishers may also bring their books to the committee's attention by sending a Letter of Nomination and three sample copies for distribution to the committee to the address below. Books may be submitted for the award only once, and should not be re-submitted unless specifically requested by the committee.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

Joan Kelly Memorial Prize in Women's History

Established in 1984, this prize, named in memory of Joan Kelly (1928-1982), is awarded annually for the book in women's history and/or feminist theory that best reflects the high intellectual and scholarly ideals exemplified by the life and work of Joan Kelly. The prize was established by the Coordinating Committee on Women in the Historical Profession and the Conference Group on Women's History (now the Coordinating Council for Women in History), and is administered by the American Historical Association. To be eligible for consideration, submissions shall be books in any chronological period, any geographical location, or in an area of feminist theory that incorporates an historical perspective. Books should demonstrate originality of research, creativity of insight, graceful stylistic presentation, analytical skills, and recognition of the important role of sex and gender in the historical process.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

John H. Dunning Prize

The Dunning Prize was created in 1927 by a bequest from Miss Mathilda M. Dunning, stipulating that a prize in American history be established in the name of her father, John H. Dunning. This biennial prize was first awarded in 1929, and was awarded in even-numbered years from 1938. It became annual in 1986.

The prize is offered for the best book on any subject pertaining to the history of the United States. Previous recipients have included Angie Debo, Oscar Handlin, and Robert A. East.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

John Hope Franklin Publication Prize

The American Studies Association is delighted to announce this award; the John Hope Franklin Publication Prize. This $750 prize is awarded every year for the best-published book in American Studies. The period of eligibility for the John Hope Franklin Publication Prize will include books published between January 1 and December 31 of the previous year. The prize winner is announced at the annual meeting of the American Studies Association, which is held in varying locations each year. Authors and publishers may submit books. To be eligible, books must be written in English, but the competition is not restricted to works printed in the United States. However, the winning author must be a member of the Association.

John K. Fairbank Prize in East Asian History

Established by a gift to the Association from the friends of the prominent historian of China and East Asia at Harvard and President of the Association in 1968, the Fairbank Prize is awarded for the best work on the history of China proper, Vietnam, Chinese Central Asia, Mongolia, Manchuria, Korea, or Japan since the year 1800. The prize was originally offered from 1969 with a $500 award, but in 1985 it became an annual prize with a cash award of $1,000. Only books of high scholarly and literary merit will be considered. Anthologies, edited works, and pamphlets are ineligible for the competition.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2015.

John Simmons Short Fiction Award

Any writer who has not previously published a volume of prose fiction is eligible to enter the competition. Previously entered manuscripts that have been revised may be resubmitted. Writers are still eligible if they have published a volume of poetry or any work in a language other than English or if they have self-published any work. Writers are still eligible if they are living abroad or are non-US citizens writing in English. Current University of Iowa students are not eligible.

*Award title is no longer collected as of 2014.

John Whitney Hall Book Prize

The Northeast Asia Council of the Association for Asian Studies presents the John Whitney Hall Book Prize which is awarded for an outstanding English language book published in Japan or Korea. The Prize, named to honor the distinguished scholar, John Whitney Hall, carries with it a $1,000 award for the author. Books nominated may address either contemporary or historical topics in any field of the humanities or the social sciences. Translations from either Japanese or Korean into English are eligible only if they include a substantial introduction, annotation, and critical apparatus. Authors need not be members of the AAS. Nominations must be made by publishers (trade publishers or university presses).

Lenore Marshall Poetry Prize

The Lenore Marshall Poetry Prize was established in 1975 by the New Hope Foundation in memory of Lenore Marshall (1897-1971), a poet, novelist, essayist, and political activist. Lenore Marshall was the author of three novels, three books of poetry, a collection of short stories, and selections from her notebooks. Her work also appeared in The New Yorker, The Saturday Review, Partisan Review, and other literary magazines. In 1956 she helped found the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the citizens' organization that lobbied successfully for passage of the 1963 partial nuclear test ban treaty. The Lenore Marshall Poetry Prize is endowed by a gift to the Academy from the New Hope Foundation.

Leo Gershoy Award

In recognition of outstanding historical writing, the American Historical Association offers the Leo Gershoy Award in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century western European history. This award was established in 1975 by a gift from Mrs. Ida Gershoy in memory of her late husband, a specialist in European history. The prize is awarded annually to the author of the most outstanding work published in English on any aspect of the fields of seventeenth- and eighteenth-century western European history. Only books of high scholarly and literary merit will be considered.

Man Booker Prize

The Man Booker Prize for Fiction represents the very best in contemporary fiction. One of the world's most prestigious awards, and one of incomparable influence, it continues to be the pinnacle of ambition for every fiction writer. It has the power to transform the fortunes of authors, and even publishers. In 2004, not only did Alan Hollinghurst's The Line of Beauty reach the bestseller lists, but previous winners Life of Pi (2002) and Vernon God Little (2003) were also amongst the bestselling books of the year.

Now in its thirty-seventh year, the prize aims to reward the best novel of the year written by a citizen of the Commonwealth or the Republic of Ireland. The winner of the Man Booker Prize receives £50,000 and both the winner and the shortlisted authors are guaranteed a worldwide readership plus a dramatic increase in book sales.

Manila Critics Circle National Book Award for Fiction

Every year since 1982, the Circle has given the National Book Awards to the best books written, designed, and published in the Philippines. In addition the Circle also gives Special Awards to outstanding publishers or publishing projects and Citations for outstanding achievement in special categories. In 1995 and 1996, the awarding ceremonies were telecast over PTV. No book written or edited by a member is eligible to win a National Book Award: instead, the Circle gives Members' Awards to its members who publish books.

National Book Awards

The National Book Awards were established in 1950 to celebrate the best writing in America. Since 1989, they have been overseen by the National Book Foundation, a nonprofit organization whose mission is to celebrate the best literature in America, expand its audience, and ensure that books have a prominent place in American culture. This collection contains Fiction, Nonfiction, Poetry, and Young People's Literature.

A panel of judges selects a Longlist of ten titles per category, which is then narrowed to five Finalists, and a Winner is announced at the Awards Ceremony in the fall. Each Finalist receives a prize of $1,000, a medal, and a Judge's citation. Winners receive $10,000 and a bronze sculpture.

National Translation Award

The National Translation Award is awarded annually in poetry and in prose to literary translators who have made an outstanding contribution to literature in English by masterfully recreating the artistic force of a book of consummate quality. Established in 1998, the NTA is the only prize for a work of literary translation into English to include an evaluation of the source language text. 2015 was the first year in which the NTA was awarded separately in poetry and prose.

Newbery Medal

The Newbery Medal is awarded annually by the American Library Association to the author of the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children by an American author and published by an American publisher in the United States in English during the preceding year. On June 21, 1921, Frederic G. Melcher proposed the award to the American Library Association meeting of the Children's Librarians' Section and suggested that it be named for the eighteenth-century English bookseller John Newbery. The idea was enthusiastically accepted by the children's librarians, and Melcher's official proposal was approved by the ALA Executive Board in 1922. The Newbery Award thus became the first children's book award in the world. Its terms, as well as its long history, continue to make it the best known and most discussed children's book award in this country.

Prix Goncourt

The Prix Goncourt is the most prestigious prize in French language literature, given to the author of "the best imaginary prose work of the year". It is considered the most important literary award in France. Edmond de Goncourt, a successful author, critic, and publisher, bequeathed his entire estate for the foundation and maintenance of the Académie Goncourt. In honor of his brother and collaborator, Jules Alfred Huot de Goncourt, (1830-1870), the Académie has awarded the Prix Goncourt every December since 1903. The jury that determines the winner meets at the Drouant restaurant to make its decision. The award, though nominal, ensures the winner celebrity status and a boost in sales. The award may only be given to an author once, and has never been given to an author twice except in one case.

Pulitzer Prizes

In writing his 1904 will, which made provision for the establishment of the Pulitzer Prizes as an incentive to excellence, Pulitzer specified solely four awards in journalism, four in letters and drama, one for education, and four traveling scholarships.
