Dean’s Report, Dean Carney-Hall

- This generation is looking for more than the traditional double room housing. The conversation began pertaining to new buildings and designs which stalled due to the economy and a number of other reasons, over the last couple of months talks of the project have begun again. Part of the goal is to provide a better residential life for students. Looking to build four bedroom apartments, with a living room, a full kitchen and two full bathrooms as well as a washer and dryer, the buildings will have full internet access. The location is McLean and Empire. The target audience is Juniors and Seniors. Payment for housing will be made semesterly. Preliminary plans have been made, and amenities for students have been well thought through. In the original conversations, rent was thought of as possibly a twelve month or ten month lease. These buildings will be up to Lead standard though not Lead certified.

- Discussion?

  - Kathryn Breisch - “With these new buildings, will the residency requirement be changed to three years?”

    - More than likely not, if the apartment buildings are filled, the Board would not look to changing policy.

  - Aubrey Dixon - “Will these buildings be co-ed?”

    - Yes, these buildings can be co-ed if the four roommates choose, however the University will never put students together co-ed.

  - Aubrey Dixon - “Will there be a guest policy and what will the alcohol be?”

    - There will be no set guest policy and the alcohol policy will be the same as the University’s alcohol policy.

  - Brexton Isaacs - “Will the apartments be open during the summer?” and “Will costs of other dorms be cheaper due to these new buildings?”
• Still being worked out, but hopes are that yes the building will stay open.

• Other dorms prices will more than likely not change, however, the price of a super single will more than likely match the apartment housing prices.

  - Wesleyana Yearbook Fee
    - “How does the yearbook system currently work?”
• The yearbook is designed by the yearbook staff, who order 800 yearbooks.
  ▪ “Is there a page limit?”
  • Yes, there is a page limit, and any white space for this year is looking to be filled.
  ▪ “Why does this matter if the Senate Activity fee covers the cost?”
  • The cost of the books will recuperate a small amount of money which will be used for student’s activities.
