Rebecca Gearhart Mafazy

Professor of Anthropology

Recipient of The Kemp Foundation Award for Teaching Excellence — 2017

Rebecca Gearhart Mafazy, professor of anthropology, is the 2017 recipient of the Kemp Foundation Award for Teaching Excellence. Nominated by her peers and selected by the University's Promotion and Tenure Committee, Dr. Mafazy is the 44th winner of the University's top teaching award.

A native of Minnesota, Dr. Mafazy has an undergraduate degree from Mount Holyoke College and earned a Ph.D. in anthropology from the University of Florida. She joined the faculty at Illinois Wesleyan in 1999. She has served as chair of the department of anthropology and sociology, and on numerous university and departmental committees. Professor Mafazy regularly mentors students conducting independent ethnographic research, whether at the introductory level or in the upper-level visual anthropology course. Helping students develop cross-cultural communication skills has inspired many of her students to expand their experience through volunteer work, internships, study abroad, and employment after graduation.

She takes an interdisciplinary approach (visual anthropology, history, and performance studies) to her research on non-Western expressive arts, including music and dance traditions. Dr. Mafazy's research interest in East Africa began when she was a Mount Holyoke undergraduate student in 1987. She has frequently lived in East Africa, primarily among the Swahili peoples of the Kenyan coast. She is co-editor of Contesting Identities: The Mijikenda and their Neighbors in Kenyan Coastal Society (Africa World Press: 2013) and the author of numerous scholarly papers.

Through the years the Teaching Excellence Award has undergone several name changes, but its purpose has always been to recognize and celebrate the vital role that teaching plays at Illinois Wesleyan. The award honors one faculty member who brings spirit, passion, and scholarship to the art of teaching. The Kemp Family Foundation began funding the award in the 2009-2010 academic year. Today we honor Professor Rebecca Gearhart Mafazy.
